

Lee Rohn to Plea In Closed Door Hearing

DemMansay has learned that St. Croix Attorney Lee Rohn has been offered a sweetheart deal in her marijuana trafficking case, and will plea to a misdemeanor charge instead. Unlike other plea deals where the Defendant has to stand in open court and acknowledge their guilt, the Attorney general's office, along with Presiding Judge Donoghue are planning an unannounced closed-hearing for the plea. No press releases will be issued until after the matter has been completed. DemMansay.com would like to know if this practice will become a standard. Will the same plea and secretive handling be offered to other defendants, facing the same charges, even if they are residents of Tutu, Savan, Oswald Harris Court, Red Brick, Marley Housing Community, or Paul M Pearson Gardens? Be Advised, DemMansay.com will be staying on top of this matter, as we have been ever since we launched our site. By the way, the sentence will be a "Thank You" card from the AG Office for making them expend a bunch of public funds on her countless appeals, a private party at her mansion out east, and an endorsement for DeWolf in 2010.
